COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGERS' OFFICE

We have tried to meet the problem of drainage on Elm St. by installing several catch basins as well as laying a number of hundred feet of new drain pipe. With a good base of gravel we are in hopes this street will be able to meet the traffic demands for some time to come. About one-half of the street has been completed to date. I am in hopes you will soon receive an estimate of your new tax valuation and expected tax. The total valuation will be very near present sound values with a much lower rate. Please understand some errors will no doubt show up; you will have an opportunity to discuss these with the Assessors as well as the representatives of the valuation "agency."

Bethel is to be host to the District meeting of the Civil Defense personnel and Western Maine Manufacturers, Wednesday, Sept. 26, 1956, the Ladies Guild of the Congregational Church will serve supper. If you are interested in hearing Col. Mapes, State director, and would like to attend the supper meeting please contact Mrs. Nary at telephone 69.

Thanks,
O. T. Rozelle

AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR BRYANT POND TAKES WOMAN'S LIFE SUNDAY

Mrs. Marguerite Knowles, 64, of Portland was killed Sunday afternoon when the car driven by her husband, Chester Knowles, skidded, as a young man where he learned the jeweler's trade.

Returning to Bethel in 1910 he purchased the watch repairing business of the late George T. Lawrence, and for five years carried on a growing jewelry business in the Hastings building. In the fall of 1915 he purchased the business of Edward King in the Cole Block and for many years was engaged in the jewelry business with added lines of ladies' furnishings, gifts and novelties, phonographs and radios.

In 1913 he married Miss Barbara Carter, who passed away in 1948. They had two daughters, Catherine, now Mrs. Richard Bush, and Barbara, who is Mrs. Harry Kuziy, both of Belmont, Mass.

Mr. Knowles was a member of the West Parish Congregational Church; Bethel Lodge, F & A M; and Kora Temple, Mystic Shrine. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Greenleaf funeral home, the Rev. Charles Pendleton officiating. Burial was at Riverside Cemetery.

That best portion of a good man's life, his little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love.

As the towns folk heard of the death of their friend and neighbor, they spoke together in sober tones of him and his fine qualities, his friendliness and his abounding good nature.

He was a landmark, as a resident and a businessman in our village. For 46 consecutive years he has kept a shop on Upper Main Street. For 65 of his 81 years he has lived here in peace and contentment. His watch, clock and jewelry business was widely known. One month ago a visitor from Belfast, Maine, displayed with pride a thin gold watch that he had bought from E. P. Lyon while on a business trip to Bethel forty-seven years ago.

Ed's fingers retained their nimble skill. His last conscious hour was devoted to mending a lamp for his brother Harry, with whom he spent the summer months on Grand Hill their beloved backyard.

Ed lived the simple things of life which are the great things. His devotion to his family and his life was unswerving. He lived the quiet life of the shadows, the affection between these remaining two became even stronger.

Conservation Farming In Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston, Soil Conservation Service

A large draining ditch was completed at the Clarence Everett farm in Oxford last week. A bulldozer was used to move the bulk of the dirt and then the Oxford County Soil Conservation District grader was used to establish the final grade line and shape the sides of the ditch. Mr. Everett has now completed the most of a very large drainage system needed on his land. His land is low and flat and previous to the construction work being done, there was no outlet for the water.

Work has also been started on the benefit of the Hunt's Corner Cemetery Association.

Mrs. Lilla Stearns is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stevens and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Inman spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Cummings.

Choose Weapons Carefully:

Use Gun to Kill--And It's Called Murder,
But Use an Automobile--It's an Accident

"ANY man who uses a gun to kill anybody today is a fool. He ought to use an automobile for his chance of getting away with murder are much better."

So said Robert L. Donigan, legal counsel for the Northwestern University Traffic Institute, in describing the effect of our soft attitude toward drivers who break the law and cause death. To illustrate his point, Donigan cited the following cases:

"A driver, through a flagrant violation of the law, killed two people and injured three. He was found guilty of negligent homicide and was sentenced to serve from 6 to 24 months."

Another Story

"In another case a man was found guilty of passing $200 worth of stolen checks he had forged. His sentence was 7 1/2 to 21 years."

"Prosecutors who do not push vigorously for convictions in serious cases, judges who tend to be lenient are discouraging respect for the traffic laws and are encouraging lawbreaking," Donigan asserted.

Public apathy has bred this soft attitude.

"We thought that polio-myelitis was a threat, and people were concerned about it," said Gov. Langbein of Washington. "Every family that had a child worried about the possibility of their youngster's getting it, and they would do anything to avoid it."

"And yet, for every youngster of 14 or under that was afflicted and died from polio-myelitis, we killed 10 on the highways of our state and people didn't seem to be particularly interested," Langbein said.

"Kill a man with a gun and we call it murder. Kill a man with a two-ton vehicle and we call it an accident."

Need Understanding
In the past, people have not supported laws even when they have been enforced. The traffic laws have not been understood by the importance to them and to their families of drivers aimed at law violations which last year were involved in 88 per cent of our 38,000 traffic deaths.

As more and more public officials are becoming aware that the flagrant traffic lawbreaker is a potential killer, enforcement drives are being stepped up throughout the country.

More than 100 cities have undertaken determined crackdowns, and the governors of 33 states either have launched gettough drives or have expressed interest in stepped up law enforcement as a traffic safety measure.

What we need now, traffic authorities declare, is an aroused and informed public (1) to support the officials who are dedicated to strict and impartial enforcement of realistic traffic laws and (2) to demand action from those who still are sitting by idly as the slaughter on the highways reaches record proportions.

More traffic deaths by police officers, however, is not enough to make a law enforcement program a life-saving success.

Need Cooperation
"Cooperation of the courts is of utmost importance," said James P. Economos, director of the traffic court program of the American Bar Association which since 1947 has been conducting seminars for prosecutors and judges to upgrade the administration of justice in the nation's traffic courts.

"Even if we have super-safe vehicles, more super highways and more highway improvements, all we can expect is a reduction of from 10 to 20 per cent—at best—in collisions and fatalities," Economos pointed out.

"But if we move through law enforcement and education, we can make a reduction of from 60 to 90 per cent. This fact places a serious responsibility on traffic court judges."

Find the Causes
"Judges must decide which offenders violated through ignorance, which through mental or physical disability and which ones through a faulty attitude or a lack of respect for the law, and he must deal with each offender individually. Ideally, the court should be a classroom where offenders are isolated and then eliminated."

Although police officers in one Tennessee city had stepped up enforcement, most of the offenders were being freed by the town's only traffic judge. The judge had to run for re-election and he thought he was making friends by his lenient attitudes.

Maybe he was making friends—but the city's death rate continued to climb.

A year later, the judge suddenly got a change of heart. In a single day, 18 of 200 drivers that appeared before him were convicted. As word of the new court policy spread, the traffic death rate soon dropped so sharply that the city won a national traffic safety award.

NEXT WEEK--Nuts on the Highway.

PIG SCRAMBLE FOR 4-Hers

AT NORTH WATERFORD FAIR

Again this year the Casco Bank & Trust Company are sponsoring a pig scramble at the North Waterford Fair. This pig scramble will be open to all the young people of the county between 10 and 14 who would like to get a pig for a 4-H project this coming year, unless they were in the contest last year. The scramble will be held at 1 p.m. Friday, Sept. 28. The scramble will be limited to 10 contestants. Fred Jenkins of Upton is in charge of registration. You can enter anytime till 5 p.m. on the day of the scramble if there are vacancies but it would be wise to enroll early.

This year at 3 p.m. on scramble day a free ride on the ferris wheel for all 4-Hers, 10 to 14, and the contestants will be treated to hot dogs and cider before the pig scramble.

We are going to grease the pig a little to make them harder to hold on to. Be sure to enroll early with Fred Jenkins at Upton.

GIRL SCOUTS

Second Grade Brownies held their first meeting on Tuesday at the Primary School Hot Lunch Room. There were 14 girls present with two girls absent. Leaders are Elizabeth Wheeler, Ruth Klirredge and Alena Sargent. Refreshments were served. The girls were introduced to the Horseshoe formation salute, sign and handshake, and learned the Brownie Smile Song. Each girl made a Brownie with the Brownie Promise stapled to it. Heidi Glines and Barbara Sue Wheeler are on refreshment committees for next meeting.

Brownie Troop 8 met Tuesday at the home of Betty Robertson with Beatrice Lowell assisting. Refreshments were served. There were 18 girls present. Games and songs were enjoyed.

Brownie Troop 7 met at the Legion Rooms with Leader Virginia Mundt and Assistant Monique Ruffe Eleanor Baker and Doris Lovell. There were 23 girls present. Officers were elected: President, Donna Day; Vice-President, Carol Kimball; Secretary, Diane Swain; Treasurer, Ethel Kimball. Songs were enjoyed. Closed with a Good-night Circle.

Troop 1 Intermediates Patrol 2 met at the home of Virginia Keniston with Kathryn Barnes assisting. There were 14 girls present. Officers were elected: Patrol Leader, Christine Stevens; Assistant Patrol Leader, Martha Keniston; Secretary, Lorraine Barnes; Treasurer, Barbara Martin. Each girl made a "Scout-More" for refreshments. We played an Observation Game. Christine won the prize. We learned a new Girl Scout song, "Cypress Song." There was much discussion about the Paper Drive which starts today and ends October 15, at which time a truck will pick up all papers and magazines. We would appreciate everyone saving papers for the Girl Scouts. Please contact a Girl Scout, (if she doesn't see you first) so we can count on you.

The number of amateur photographers has doubled since the end of World War II, and about 26 million families in the United States take one and a half billion still pictures every year.
